HELICOPTER MANAGEMENT AND OTHER MISTAKES

You are a freshly minted manager. You come full of rage and frustration at the poor management you've endured and witnessed in tech, and you are god damn determined not to repeat all of those mistakes.

You are tired of reporting to a manager who isn't transparent with you, who hoards critical information and isn't forthcoming about changes that impact you. You are tired of not being listened to or treated like a cog, so you swear to really listen and take your reports seriously.

You have seen sooooo many managers who failed to develop their people or sponsor them for growth opportunities, who blamed their team and hung them out to dry instead of having their back behind closed doors. Managers who didn't seem to care about you as people, or who never made it feel safe to say, "I need a mental health day". Managers who dangled the promise of a promotion, but even though you are doing the work, the recognition never comes.

Rookie mistakes

The traps

- Only focusing down
- Over-managing
- Lopsided view
- Political naivety

How much ambiguity?

Acceptable ambiguity

The best leaders I've had ... let me find my way ...

but made it clear what the goals & constraints are.

Style influences

Organisation

An org needs to be time tolerant for discovery and collective decisioning making

Team maturity

What a newly formed team needs is radically different to an established team

Seniority mix

Situational leadership - modulate the time taken for hand-on vs watching & learning

Insecurities around leadership

Feeling insecure:

- Does not in any way indicate a lack of talent

But ...

- Learning to manage insecurities is essential

Decisiveness
with humility

Leadership is caring.

The one who cares the most.

Demonstrate
The culture you expect

So ... what's your leadership style?

TL;DR - summary ...

Uncertainty 🙄

Is fine to acknowledge ..
but you must know the foundations

Dance or direct 🕺

You need to do both ..
but be deliberate with your focus and attention

Connected 🧭

The the true direction ...
and share with your team too

(In)-security 🤔

Feeling insecure is acceptable
but learning to manage insecurities is essential

Demonstrate 💖

The culture you expect ...
but be open to feedback

Ambiguity 🙄

Let me find my way ...
with clear goals & constraints
